

Welcome to the Forum

Contributed by Lee Gold
Last Updated Saturday, 17 April 2010

The LASFS Forum is a bulletin board for discussions on many topics.

Forum Registration

Anybody can read the forum discussions, but you need to register. If you want to say something there. Yes, that's a separate registration from being a registered LASFS website user.

Make up a username and a password and provide an email address. You will also need to type in the confirmation code that is shown on a mottled gray background. Also, please write something fannish in the "Interests" box so the Forum Administrator will know you're a fan and not a spammer. Then click the "Submit" button at the bottom of the page.

After you register, the Forum Administrator will need to approve your registration before you can post to the Forum discussions. This may take a day or two. You will receive an email notification when your registration is complete.

If you have any problems registering for the Forum, please email the webmaster.

If you have already registered for the forums, you can login here.

The LASFS Forum is a cluster of topical discussion areas for announcements and information exchange by LASFS members and SF fans in general, about LASFS' facilities, activities, current events, and issues of those interests we tend to share. We have tried to make it comfortable and user-friendly for real people by making it as spambot-hostile as possible.

That said, LASFS Forum membership is like LASFS itself -- only about 5% of the people who have signed up for membership ever show up to participate. Since, at the time of this writing, we currently have 43 registered users at the Forum, that means only 2.15 people ever post there on a regular basis. We'd like to improve on that, but we can't do it without your help.

Register Today.